

Reveal your smile potential.

Have you ever visited your dentist and asked how your smile could be improved only to be sent away with the advice that since your smile is healthy, you don't need to do anything?

This is often the case with many dentists for the simple reason they are there to ensure you have healthy teeth. Healthy teeth are great, but you may want to know more about how you can improve your smile's appearance.

You're halfway there to building a beautiful smile if you have a healthy mouth with good teeth, bone and gum tissue. Your smile needs to be healthy before it can be beautiful, but only you can decide if you want to have a more attractive smile. The technology is available for you to have your wish granted quickly and what's more, it's often pain-free for both you and your wallet.

Dr Dylan Yung is one of New Zealand's leading cosmetic dentists. He often lectures on the latest technology and techniques being developed both here and overseas. Dylan is renowned for his relaxed and helpful manner. His solutions for his clients' smile concerns work within the realms of what is possible, bearing longevity and the best outcome in mind. ... that cosmetic dentistry is not just for people requiring a complete new smile. For you, it could be as simple as building up small teeth, closing a gap, chip or rectifying that annoying factor you just can't stand about your smile. Having a great smile not only makes you feel happier and more attractive, it helps you look younger.
